Passage 1

1. Why does the author start the passage with the quote from Mark Twain (lines 1-2)? [1]

From the passage	Suggested answer
Mark Twain once said that "Humour is the great thing, the saving thing after all. The minute it crops up, all our irritations and resentments flit away, and a sunny spirit takes their place."	He includes the quote to introduce the topic of the benefits of humour.  OR  pique interest in the topic of humour.

2. Why did Mark Twain describe humour as 'the saving thing' (line 1)? Use your own words as far as possible. [2]

From the passage	Suggested answer
The minute it crops up, all our irritations and resentments flit away ,	a. When humour occurs, we stop feeling annoyed/angry/frustrated/disgruntled/bitterness/agitation [1] and a sunny spirit takes their place.	b. And instead, we start feeling cheerful/happy/joyful/light-hearted. [1]

3. In paragraph 2, explain why the author suggests that humour as 'a means of declaring one's superiority' (line 13) is not the kind that leaders want to acquire? Use your own words as far as possible. [2]

From the passage	Suggested answer
a means of declaring one's superiority	Leaders should be empathetic/     approachable/ be able to build rapport/     uplift and encourage [1]
	b. And should not portray themselves as being better than others/put others down/humiliate/belittle others. [1]

4. What is the author implying by the use of 'surprise' in line 33? [2]

Passage 2

7. Why have the authors written 'winning' in inverted commas (line 16)? [1]

From the passage	Suggested answer
Part of the "winning" strategy is to best others	The authors do not agree with the strategies
by discounting them and their qualities.	used to claim victory/gain an advantage because they are dishonourable/underhanded/despicable/demonstrate undesirable/deplorable qualities.
	OR
	The authors do not agree with the strategies used to claim victory/gain an advantage because they hurt others/ victory is gained at the expense of others.
	OR
	The authors do not think that anyone really wins as the organisation loses in the end from such a strategy.

8. In paragraph 3, how does negative humour reinforce the feeling of superiority felt by those who engage in such humour? Use your own words as far as possible. [2]

From the passage	Suggested answer
Part of the "winning" strategy is to best others by discounting them and their qualities .	<ul> <li>We outclass/outdo/beat others by undermining/belittling/mocking/deriding their traits/features,</li> </ul>
And when others laugh at our "zingers," we feel affirmed and justified.	<ul> <li>and when people react positively to the jokes, we feel that they endorse/validate/legitimise our opinions.</li> </ul>

9. In paragraph 4, why do the authors say that a person offended by a joke falls into a 'double bind' (line 22)? Use your own words as far as possible. [2]

From the passage	Suggested answer
In many instances, the offended person also	a. Firstly, a joke was made at the expense of falls into the double bind of being insulted	this person/this person was hurt by the joke/mocked/made fun of/ridiculed.

and then told not to feel insulted. In fact, the retort "Can't you take a joke?" implies that one is overly sensitive.

b. In addition, they may be criticised as being too easily upset/for not being able to take the humour in their stride.

10. Explain the irony in the last sentence of paragraph 4. [2]

From the passage	Suggested answer
To make matters worse, after being subjected to such a situation repeatedly, some targets become the next perpetrators of negative humour.	a. We would expect people who are constantly made fun of to not make similar jokes at others' expense/to not do the same to others.
	b. However, in reality they sometimes perpetuate a vicious cycle by making cruel jokes at others' expense.
	Note: 0 or 2 marks

11. According to the authors, 'it does not take much talent to find fault with others' (line 33). Suggest a reason why this might be the case. [1]

Suggested answer
We might be used to other people (e.g. parents, teachers) finding fault with us, so we learn to mimic their behaviour.  OR  To feel superior /better about ourselves, we may instinctively focus on other people's weaknesses.  OR  We each have our own quirks /preferences, so we may naturally be put off by other people's behaviours that offend us.

12. The author of Passage 1 believes in the benefits of humour while the authors of Passage 2 argue that negative humour has detrimental consequences.

How far do you agree or disagree with the opinions expressed in these two passages? Support your answer with examples drawn from your own experience and that of your society. [10]

They should also include elaboration and support through personal insight and apt illustrations.  COHERENCE  Student demonstrates clear paragraph organisation and cogent argument.

From Passage 1: Key ideas

From Paragraph 3:

- One of the best things you can do for your health
- Improves overall quality of life i.e. better self-esteem, greater confidence in their own abilities, more control over anxiety, better performance in social interactions

From Paragraph 4:

• Laughter can be a productivity tool as well

From Paragraph 5:

- Positive change in the world
- Achieve business objectives, build more effective organisations, cultivate stronger bonds, capture more lasting memories

From Passage 2: Key ideas

From Paragraph 1:

- Sends a strong message defining "insiders" and "outsiders"
- If we are members of the "outsider" group, such humour can undermine our sense of selfworth, commitment to the organisation and performance.

From Paragraph 2:

- Derogatory terms surface that put down the other group or used as short-hand to slam others
- Over time, polarisation and bitterness can increase
- Both groups fail to capitalise on any potential synergies that such collaboration can yield

From Paragraph 4: When we are the targets (context)

- We pay the price in lowered self-esteem, self-doubt, anxiety and loss of energy.
- The offended person is labelled unworthy of a valid complaint.

From Paragraph 5: When we are someone on the sidelines listening and observing (context)

- Feel that our personal integrity has been eroded
- If we laugh at negative humour, we are tacitly agreeing with the joke teller, and equally responsible for the trash talking
- If we do not laugh, we risk being excluded or the butt of the next joke
- Over time, it can strip us of sensitivity, empathy and compassion
